

Fabuland™

140

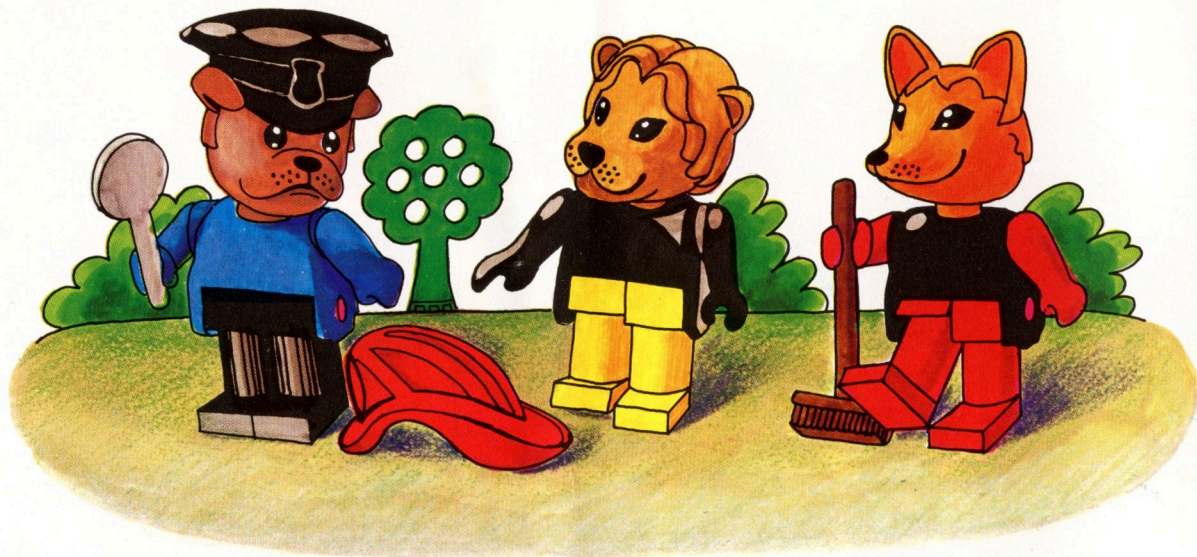

Dear parents,

FABULAND™ is the name of an exciting new play experience for your child. It is an opportunity for your child to use his or her imagination while building a whole world of fun!

You can read the story to your child. Or let your child use the pictures alone to help create other adventures. Simplified building instructions are included - yet no one way is correct.

All FABULAND Sets fit together too, so an entire fantasy village can be created - full of animal figures with unique personalities, different occupations - with even more room for your child's imagination to grow.

And FABULAND Sets work with all other LEGO® Building Sets for even more play possibilities!

This is BURT, THE BULLDOG. He is the town policeman. But when there is an emergency, he is the fireman, too. That keeps him very busy.

This is LIONEL, THE LION. He rules the town. He is the mayor. Leonard roars out orders. What he says is law!

This is FREDDY, THE FOX. He is very sly. He makes trouble but he has a good heart. See the good things Freddie does.

1.

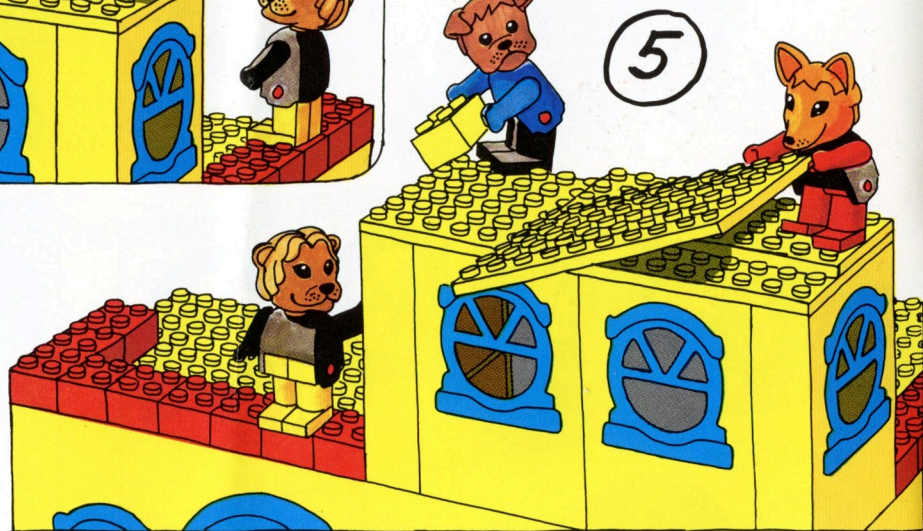

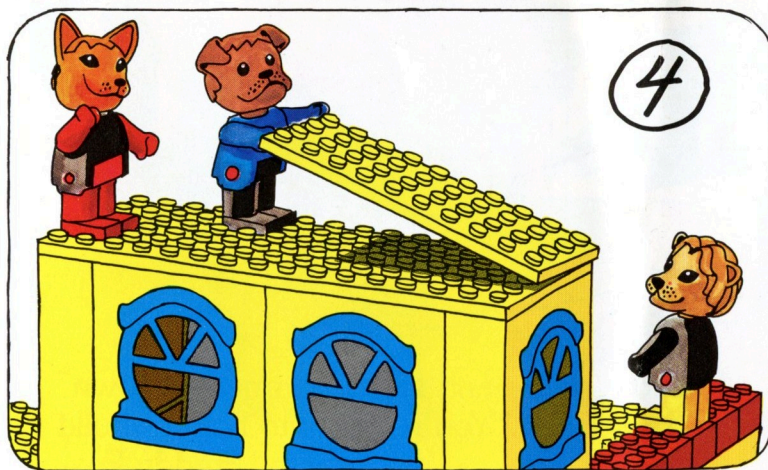

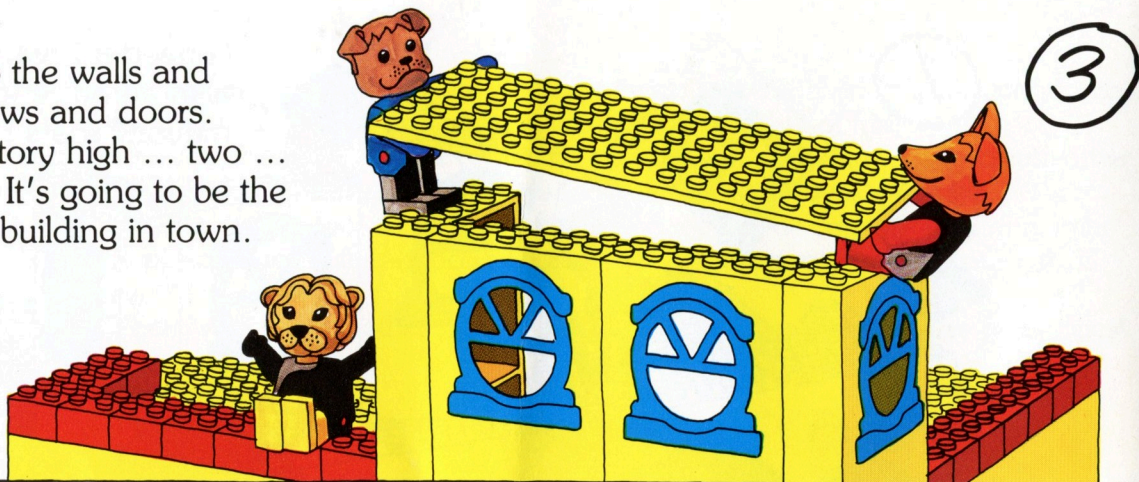

"I need a Town Hall with an office for the mayor!" roars Lionel.

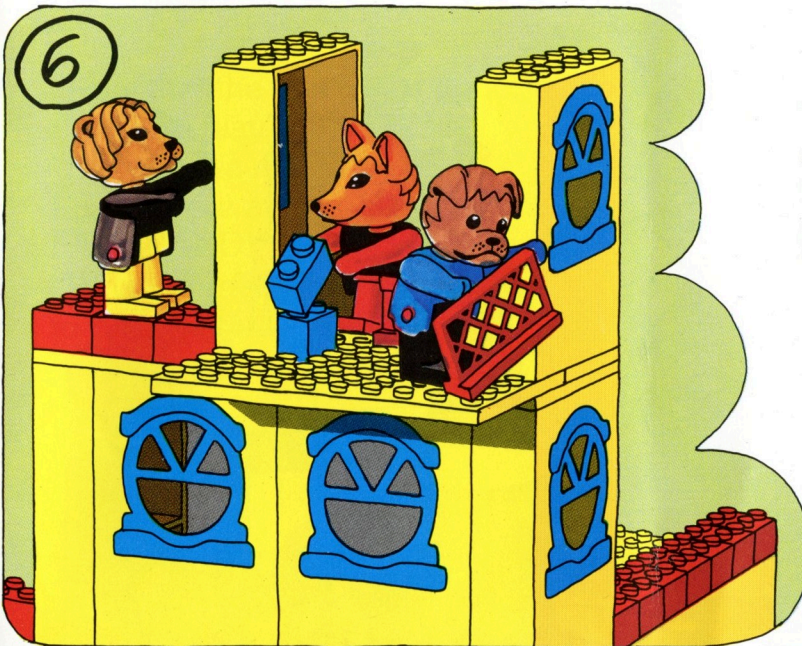

2

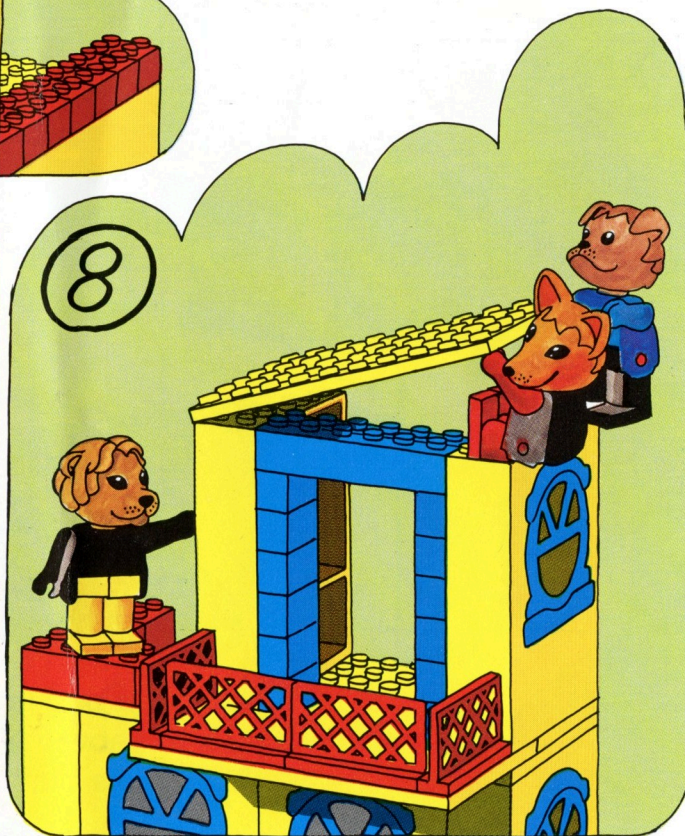

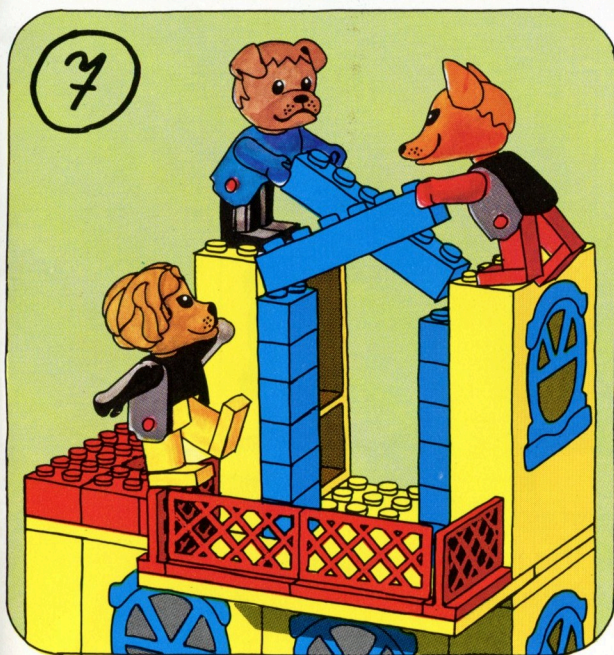

"I need a police and fire department in town," says Burt. "You're going to help us build them, Freddy Fox. Get to work. That's an order!" roars Lionel.

Up go the walls and windows and doors.
One story high ... two ... three. It's going to be the tallest building in town.

"I want a balcony,"
adds Lionel.
"A mayor needs a place to
make speeches."

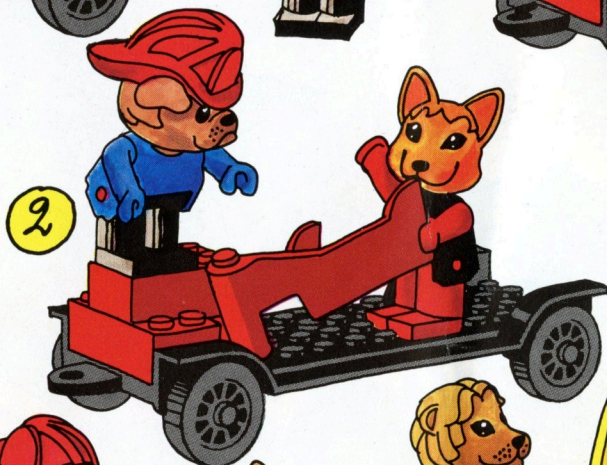

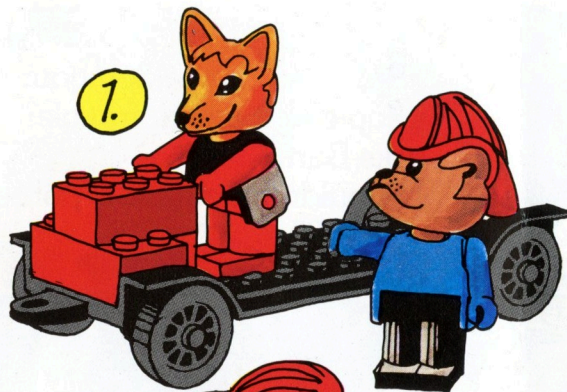

"Make it tall and important, boys.
I want everyone to know this is the mayor's building," Lionel tells Burt and Freddy.

"Now that the building is done,
I'm off to play," says Freddy.
"If you leave now, stay away!
Lazy people are not welcome in FABULAND!" roars Lionel.
"What he means is, there's more
to do," Burt tells Freddy.

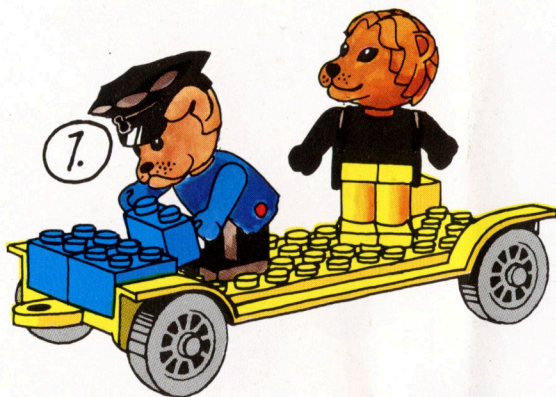

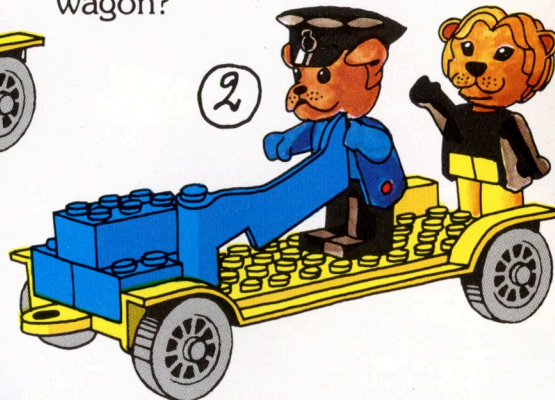

"I need furniture for my office," Lionel announces.
"I need some for the police department. And the fire department," adds Burt. "You need more than that," says Freddy.

"What you need is a fire truck with a nice big ladder," says Freddy. "Now we're ready for all emergencies," Lionel says with satisfaction. "With the fire truck, we can help people in trouble," Burt agrees.

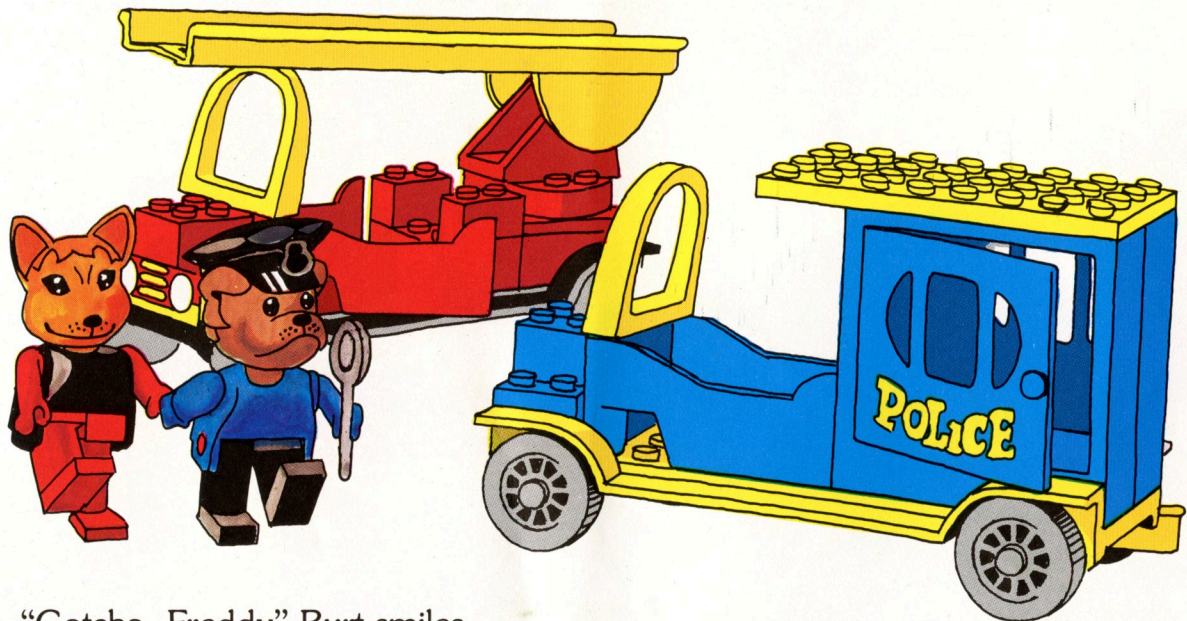

"But what do we do about the people who make trouble?" asks Burt.
"Shouldn't we have a police wagon?"

"Uh-oh!" says Freddy.
"I don't want to stick around."

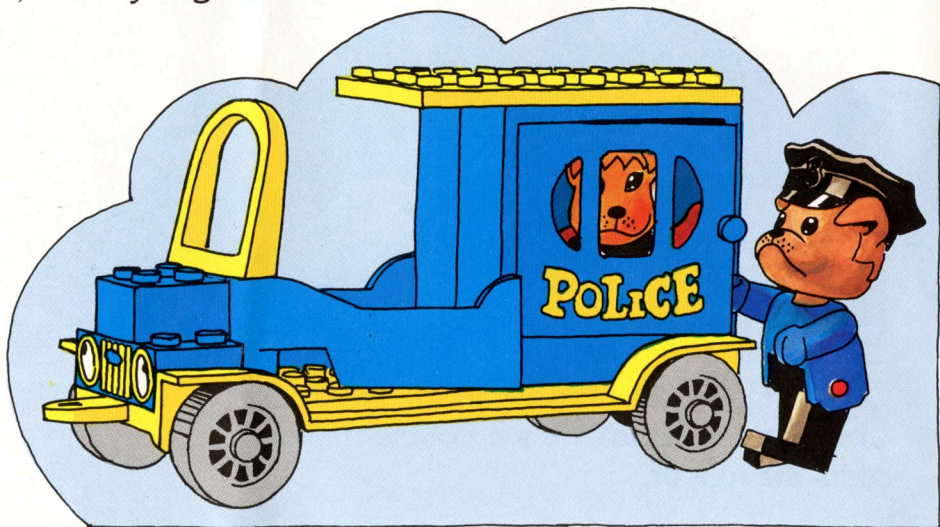

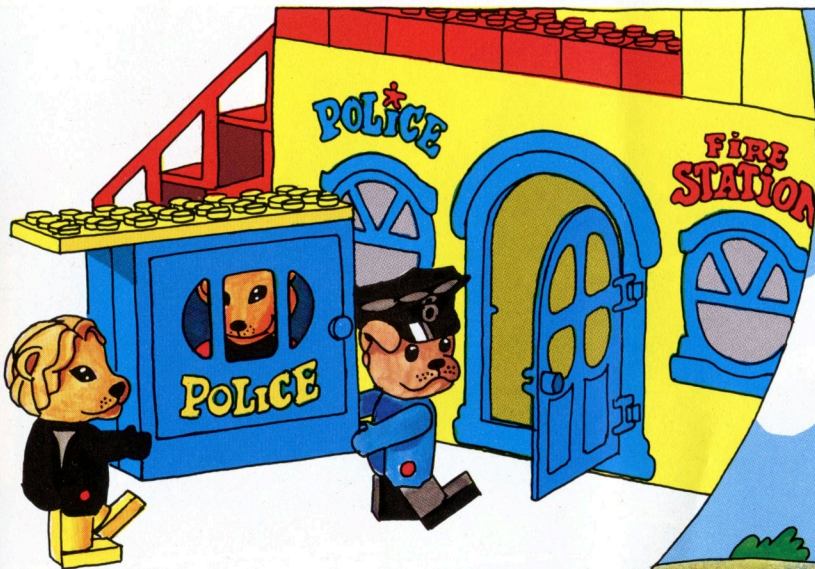

"Look! There goes Freddy in the fire truck. Lock him up, Burt! He's a trouble-maker!" roars the mayor.

"Gotcha, Freddy." Burt smiles.
He puts Freddy in the police wagon for taking the fire truck.

"Let me out of here," Freddy begs him.

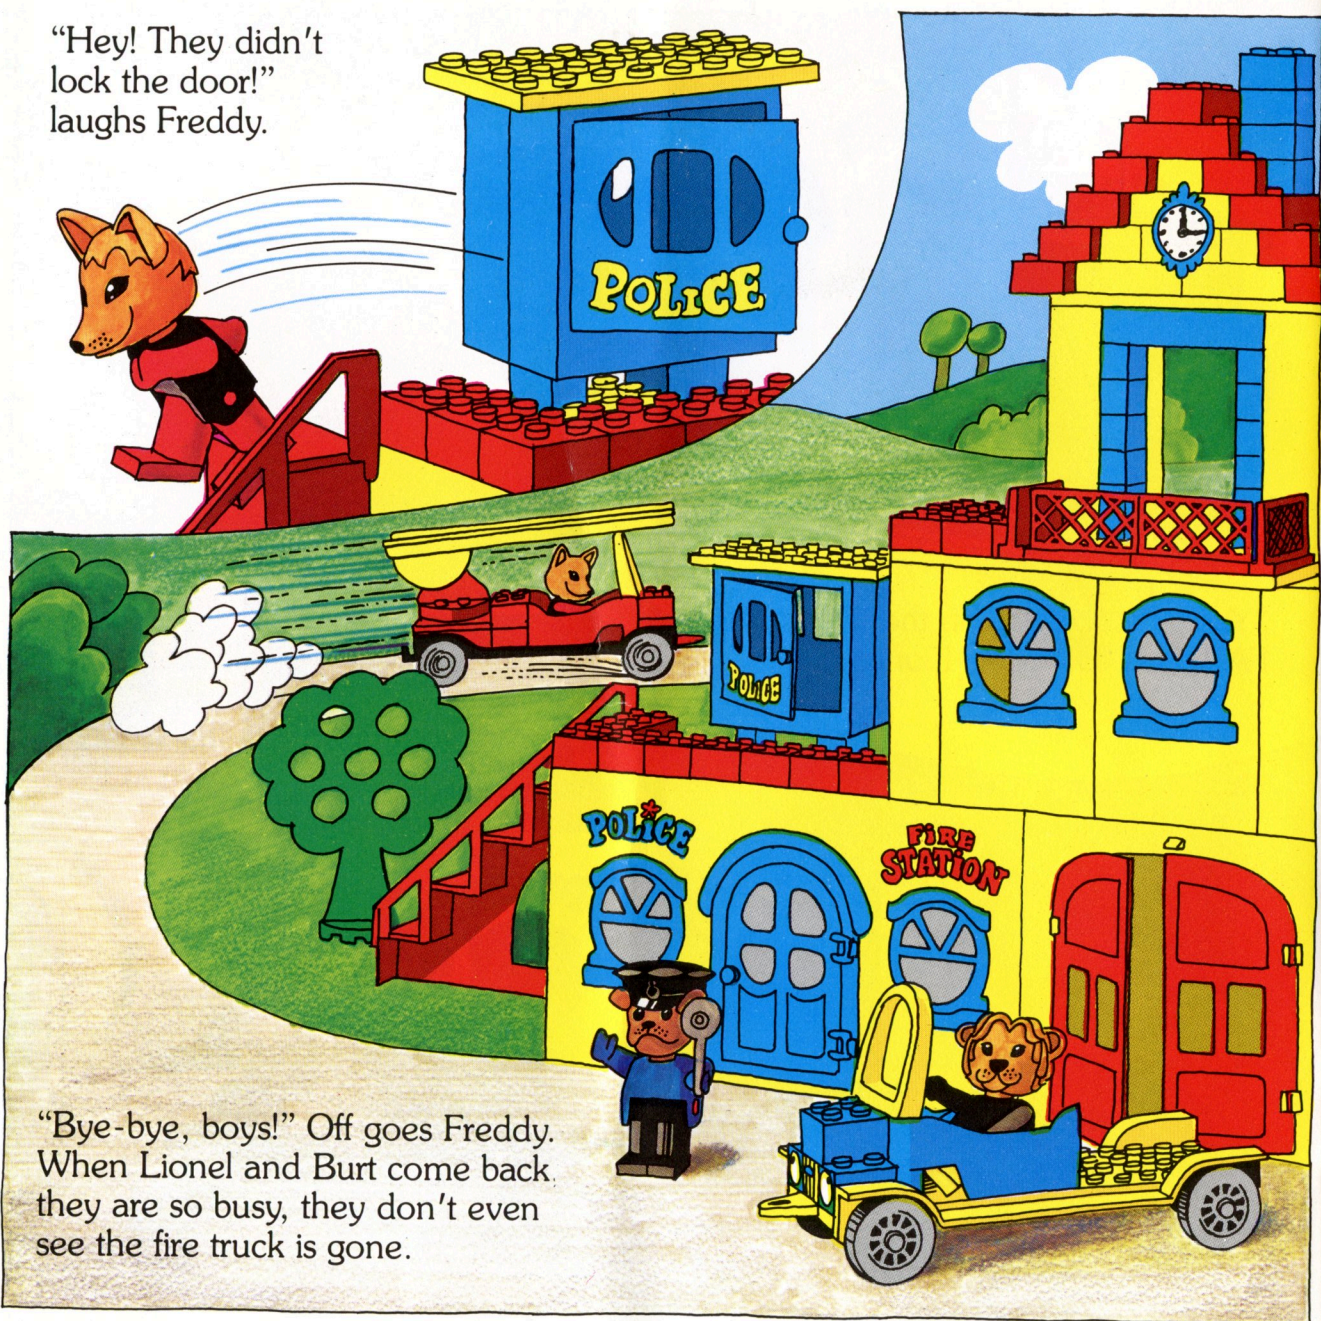

"You don't belong on the streets of FABULAND!" roars Lionel.

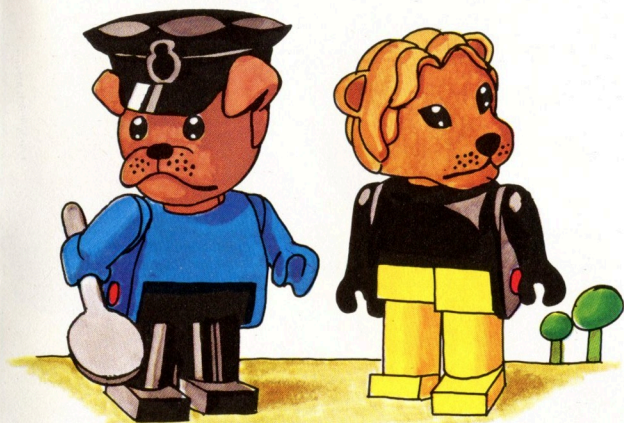

And off go Lionel and Burt to tour the town.

"Hey! They didn't lock the door!"
laughs Freddy.

"Bye-bye, boys!" Off goes Freddy.
When Lionel and Burt come back,
they are so busy, they don't even
see the fire truck is gone.

Now they notice. Too late!
Freddy has escaped!
“We’ll have to build a better jail
to hold that fox,”
Burt tells Lionel.

“I know a place where no one can get out,” Lionel tells Burt.
“He won’t be able to out-fox
us up there.”

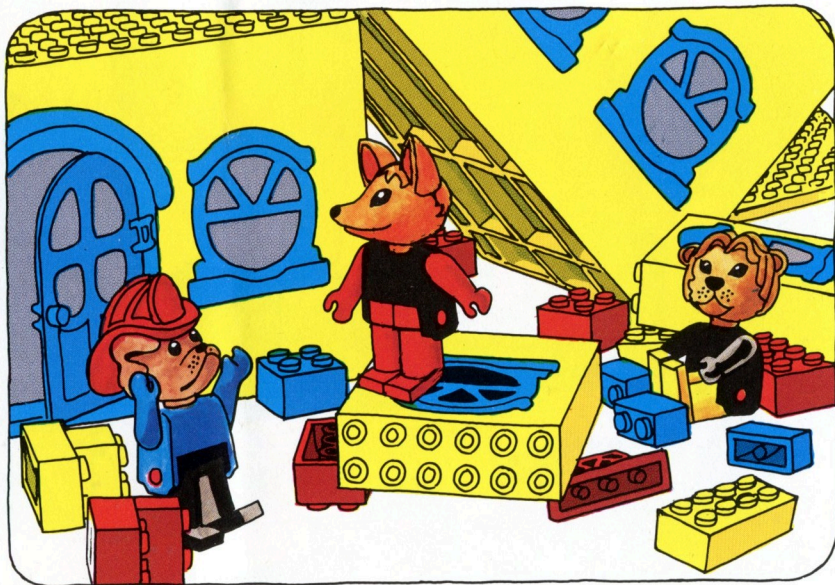

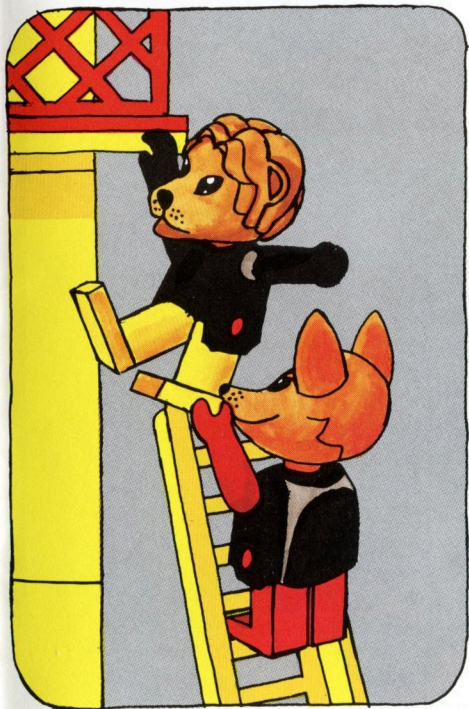

No sooner have they finished rebuilding when a storm begins. Thunder! BOOM! Lightening! CR-RACK! The tall tower crashes to the ground. "Help! Help!" cries out Lionel. "I don't have a ladder," says Burt. "What will I do?"

"They need my help," thinks Freddy. "I'm on my way!"
VROOOMM!

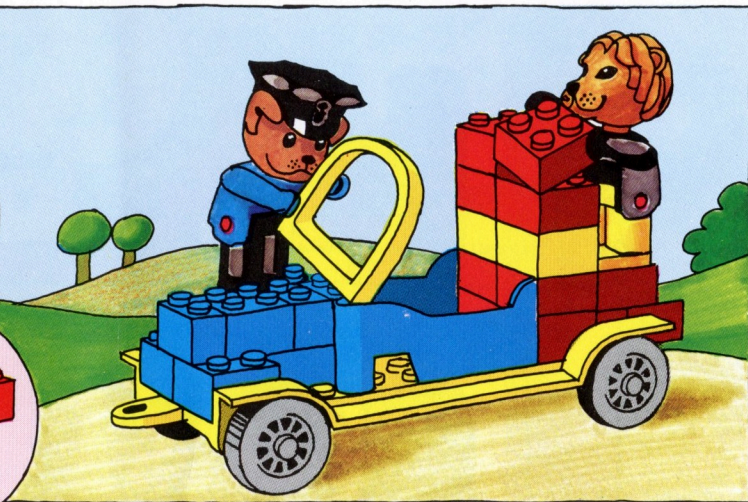

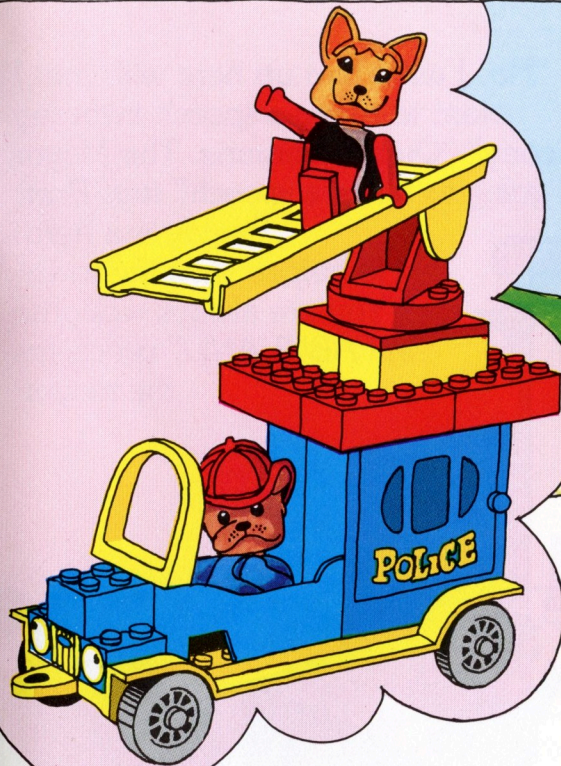

"Hold on to me. You're safe
now. I'll help you fix the building."

“Let’s make it
different from the way
it was,” roars the
mayor
“But not too tall,”
Freddy reminds them.
All agree.

"If we make a combination jail-fire truck, we can also make a car just for fun," says Freddy.

"I think we should do something special for Freddy. He saved my life," says the mayor

"Let's drive him through the town," says Burt.

"No. I want him up here with me. I want to make a speech from my balcony." "Quiet, everyone. The Mayor is going to make a speech," says Burt.

Freddy is a hero. He helped save the town. "You are always welcome in FABULAND," proclaims the mayor

